

Martin Philpot

Heavyweight all-round freelance designer – highly experienced in integrated brand communications, graphic & website design – available for agency hire

I am a passionate, highly skilled creative designer who loves working from a blank sheet of paper. Drawing on my wide knowledge and vast experience, I relish in tackling all manor of projects from start-ups to blue-chip clients. My skills and experience cross a wide range from design for print & advertising to designing and building Wordpress sites. I am equally at home sketching out ideas, brainstorming and collaborating with my colleagues, to creating intricate artwork in Illustrator or constructing carefully crafted website designs.

Future*I am looking for new challenges

I have enjoyed a great number of years in my last role, and have seen technologies change and grow during that time but I have come to a point in my career where I want new challenges, new projects, new clients and the chance to work with like-minded creative, engaging and talented people.

I have run my own freelance business for ten years creating designs for a small number of clients who have limited budgets. This gives me the freedom to explore new ideas as well as creating excellent, on-brand results.

Now I am full time freelance, mixing client projects with agency work
